

Sponsor the most trusted comprehensive analysis of New York City's housing market

The State of New York City's Housing and Neighborhoods is the premier compilation of data and analysis about New York City's housing, land use, demographics, and quality of life indicators for each borough and the city's 59 community districts. Advocates, policymakers, journalists, industry professionals, and other influential New Yorkers rely on this up to date information to help shape the city's future.

Our annual launch event centered on the year's focus chapter, typically attended by 300 guests, will happen virtually in June 2020.

2019 Focus: The State of Evictions in New York City

Our Focus Chapter this year explores patterns in eviction filings across New York City. As policymakers at the local and national level seek to focus efforts on preventing evictions, we seek to inform those efforts by providing nuanced analyses of the types of areas where eviction filing rates are highest and lowest in the city. We will couple this analysis with an interdisciplinary panel of thought leaders who work to address the underlying issues that cause evictions, and the impact evictions have on households and buildings.
